

BR_CE AND CAR_LE

Over their years of leadership in communities in South Australia and Tasmania, Br_ce and Car_le have had a passion to nurture and encourage young adults as they grapple with the issues we all face in life. They also have a keen interest in cross-cultural work, and responded with enthusiasm to the call to serve with a Teaching English as a Second Language (TESL) team in Central Asia.

Br_ce spent time in the region a number of years earlier, and he and Car_le share an interest in its history, culture and growing significance on the world stage.

Both of them enjoy meeting new people, and avail themselves of every opportunity to build relationships. As teachers of English, team members find many opportunities for answering questions and sharing their varied life experiences with fellow workers and students. The people are keen to practise their English skills with native speakers of the language, and this brings many opportunities for meaningful conversations.

Accommodation is provided on the university campus, so one of the rewarding aspects of being teachers is to provide a warm, welcoming atmosphere in which to build friendships in their home. Br_ce and Car_le are also keen to grasp opportunities to visit students and their families in their homes.

Br_ce and Car_le write, “We want to learn more about the culture, mindset and worldview of those we encounter. We have a desire to encourage the students to explore and discover the help and support that they need in their life journeys.”
