

JULIA

Serving in the Silk Road Area

Julia has a strong desire to work among people who are disadvantaged and in poverty from decades of communist government.

Having taught English in Pakistan in 1990–1993, Julia believed the best way she could offer something of value to others was as a qualified English teacher. Since early 2007 she has studied for a certificate in 'Teaching English as a Foreign Language' and been a volunteer teacher in Australia. Now God has led her to apply to Global Interaction to work in Kazakhstan.

In the Silk Road region, Julia will be assisting an Australian family with their children's schooling. She will be a part of a team who are spending time in the local community, listening and responding as locals talk of their lives and hopes for the future.

Julia will seek to build on her past teaching and cross-cultural experiences, develop her cross-cultural language and culture skills and, as God leads, move out into her local community. Important long-term goals include teaching English to local people and making friends among them, which she hopes will result in them also becoming friends of Jesus.

Julia is seconded to Service Fellowship International.
